BOXING CONTEST GOES THREE ROUNDS

Jim Burrows Wins on a Foul. Winds up in Court

The much talked of boxing match came off in the Coleman Opera House last Monday night before the largest crowd ever gathered to witness a boxing contest.

Robinson was in fine form being trained to the minute while Burrows entered the ring with two ribs fractured. Last fall Jim had the misfortune to be thrown from his buggy and sustained several fractured ribs which were further aggravated by a stiff punch from his trainer the week before the contest. However Jim decided not to disappoint his friends and entered the ring determined to win for his friends if possible.

A splendid preliminary was put on by Spokane Kid and the Hillcrest Kid. Four rounds was the schedule for this bout and the boys were both fast and clever. Towards the end of the contest Spokane Kid weakened and also received several uppercuts which had a quieting effect. Referee Gould gave the decision to the Hillcrest Kid.

The main bout commenced at 10.45. Both men were applauded as they entered the ring. McFarty a prominent boxer of Boston was chosen as referee and made an efficient official. A. Good was chosen as timekeeper. The contest by rounds was as follows:

Round 1. Both men spar for a few seconds. Robinson leads with a right on jaw and Jim falls. Jumping up he sticks left to body. Robinson counters with another heavy right in stomach again flooring Jim. Jim dodges heavy right and left. Robinson lands on body.

Round 2. Robinson rushes to the center and lands heavily on Jim's ribs. Jim taking the count of 8. Jim comes back strong and lands a heavy right on body. Robinson is floored. Both exchange heavy body blows.

Round 3. Both men are more cautious. Robinson leads and lands on body. Jim takes count of 6. Jim lands on jaw. Both spar for half a minute. Both mix it and then clinch. Robinson lands a short arm blow too low and the referee awarded the contest to Jim on a foul.

The referee afterwards challenged any man between Calgary and Spokane to a contest at 140 pounds.

Inspector Belcher came down from Pincher Creek to vindicate the charge made by a local minister of the gospel in regard to Constable Barker assisting C. Robinson prepare for his battle with J. Burrows. The Inspector found out that the constable in question had taken off his uniform while on duty and had boxed five rounds on one day and it is said gave a severe reprimand for forging his duties.

As an aftermath the principals and spectators in the contest were rewarded. J. Pigeon was fined $50. J. Burrows appealed his case and the case will come up at M.C. court. Whether this will at boxing matches in the future is not yet known.

Stops the Flyer.

McPhee, late of Crow's Nest, led more than the citizens of Coleman could do in 1908 in that he succeeded in stopping the flyer singlehanded. On Wednesday he became seized with the idea that a rail bath would be a good constitutional, so he forthwith laid himself down on the downy tracks near the eastern curve.

While timing the flyer he fell asleep and were it not for the emergency breaks of the locomotive he would now have solved the problem concerning Halley's comet. Such is fate.

Inspector Belcher gave him a hearing and allowed him to go with a reprimand.

Messrs. Malcolm, John, and Charles McLean, arrived in town this week. They are brothers of Alex. who is at present seriously ill with pneumonia in the hospital. Mr. McLean we learn will be able to get around soon but will not resume work for some months.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Lincture. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of whooping cough, croup, and hoarseness. Sold by all dealers.

MINISTER OF RAILWAYS TO BE HERE

C. P. R. to Straighten Their Line Through the Pass

The reconstruction of the C. P. R. line through the Crow's Nest Pass is now almost a settled question, as the C. P. R. have made application to the Railway Commission for permission to rebuild the line. The application has been granted. The following telegram was received by the clerk of the council: "An application of C. P. R. for approval of route to make a revision of Crow's Nest branch will be heard by the Minister of Railways and Canals on Friday, 23rd inst. Letter following." The letter afterwards stated that the meeting would be held in the council chamber at Coleman.

There is no doubt that the reconstruction of this line will cause extremely good times in the Pass. It also forebodes the inevitable event of the Crow's Nest branch being the main line of the C. P. R.

Daring Hold Up.

The accustomed stillness of the pathway leading around the bluff on Sunday night was rudely broken by midnight shrieks that plainly announced that a hold up was on the bill of fare. Gus Reese, a Belgian, was the victim. He himself stated that when he reached home he felt so bad all over that he cried himself. But when he discovered that the would-be robbers had neglected to abscond with $60 that he had stowed away he laughed himself all over. Gus was struck in the face but soon recovered.

BAZAAR WAS A BIG FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Rectory Fund Enlarged Concert was well Attended

The Bazaar held in the Opera House under the auspices of St. Alban's Church proved a great success, both financially and socially. The booths which were all artistically decorated attracted a large number of eager buyers. The ladies on the different committees also proved excellent hostesses and felt at home. In the evening the large crowds were entertained by Professor Crawford's orchestra and a splendid array of talent. R. E. Webb sang appreciatively "A Song of the Desert and I" and was loudly applauded on his splendid effort. Mr. Webb has a powerful bass voice and is always a popular soloist. Mrs. Simpson sang with much sweetness. "Tom Crawford and Harry Smith sang a splendid duet "Lark and Watch" and J. W. Faulkner gave a Country recitation which was very interesting. C. H. Lark exhibited his moving pictures and the audience applauded and shook with laughter at the different amusing acts of the features.

A vote of thanks was tendered by the Rev. W. Macmillan to the ladies of the W. A. and all the who had assisted in making the bazaar the success that it was.

Messrs. MacMillan and A. Key paid Coleman a visit this week.

Mr. Bartlett also states that this season will be dry and especially suited for the raising of young turkeys and beets.

BOARDING HOUSE IS BURNED DOWN

Early Sunday Morning. Fire Brigade Does Great Work

The Coleman boarding house which has been managed for over a year by Miss Holmes was on Sunday morning deluged by fire. The blaze was first noticed at 1 o'clock a.m. and the alarm was immediately sent in to the fire department. The firemen responded immediately and to the hard, heavy work of the firemen can be attributed the standing of the adjacent buildings today. The firemen were somewhat impeded by the ever present large crowd which always gathers on such occasions. The fine residence of E. Disney is situated only twenty-five feet away and the flames which were shooting thirty feet in the air were kept well under control.

The interior of the building was fire-swept and gutted, particularly below where the blaze originated. A splendid piano, much furniture and bedding material was consumed by the fiery tongue.

Within an hour from the commencement of the fire the flames were almost all extinguished by four streams. The firemen worked well together and again demonstrated that the citizens of Coleman are served by a splendid brigade.

The building which was owned by E. Disney was well insured. It is not yet known whether it will be reconstructed or not.

Well Prepared.

The Masonic hall, which will be held to-night in the Opera House promises to be a splendid event of the season. The hall has been most artistically decorated with lighted designs emblematic of the Masonic order and evergreens have been lavishly displayed.

Strike at Greenwood

Phoenix, B. C., April 19.—Four hundred employees of the British Columbia Copper Co. at the Greenwood smelter and the Mother Lode and Orendoren mines quit work at 7 this morning, demanding that the company employ members of the Western Federation of Miners exclusively.

The strike today was the result of a vote taken on Saturday among the members of the Greenwood miners' union and is the outcome of the verdict of the conciliation board which sat in Greenwood last February. The department at Ottawa recently issued a report on the evidence taken and the finding of the conciliation board which was favorable to the British Columbia Copper Co. The vote passed by a very narrow margin. The company has posted a notice offering all the men work if they care to take it.

Free E. Eddy of Michel sent We know day in town.

WHERE RUFUS PERISHED

STONE MARKS SPOT WHERE HE WAS KILLED IN NEW FOREST.

Canadian Girl Writing of a Stay in Bournemouth Tells of the Historical Places For Which the Famous Winter Resort is Celebrated—Duke of Monmouth Was There in House, Which Still Stands.

There's a blue-gray sky, and a gray-green sea, and the waves are tumbling in at the foot of the cliffs, and the gulls are screaming to each other their opinions of the people in ulsters, and their hats tied on with motor veils, who are taking constitutional.

Winter at the sea in the south of England is not what it would be in Canada, writes Mary MacLeod Moore in Toronto Saturday Night. Here in Bournemouth the people have not seen snow this year, and on the slopes below our windows the grass is green. Yesterday the sun blazed, and old ladies taking gentle walks on sheltered paths, put up their sunshades.

Bournemouth air attracts many alluring ones, but there is plenty to occupy the strong and healthy. The high cliffs and the sands, and the beautifully laid-out gardens in various directions are not the only charms for visitors in search of change from the bustle and strenuousness of London life. You can go down from the cliff top to the seafront by means of a lift, or incline railway, but you can also walk if you are active, and enjoy the sight of stately dowagers driving in their carriages along the sea-drive. This is a small amusement.

You can go in the tram to Poole, showing the remains of an old fish-village, where, in a modern building, within hazy stone walls, and watch the sailing boats from Dover and from across the Channel unloading, and you can see the winding old streets, with an occasional thatched cottage, and you notice the house with a tablet telling all interested that this is on the site of the one in which Charles II. and the Duke of Monmouth stayed. Off in the other direction is Christchurch, a settlement dating back to Saxon times. Close by is Swanage, and also Corfe Castle, the New Forest, Isle of Wight, Southampton, and other well-known spots. Christchurch goes back to a year of our Lord 900, but we have in a modern trolley car, built in Pittsburgh, Pa., and passed dozens of new villas and cottages, till one sighted for the picturesque cottages which are most likely unsanitary and very cold. They say there was a Roman camp close by, and the places mentioned in Saxon chronicles.

Looking down on the modern villas and the sea-shops and post-card places in the great Priory of Christchurch, which all visitors go to see. It is a massive, stately old building for which Hambar, who, as the guide says, was a favorite of William Rufus, was responsible. The guide is rosy and optimistic—he needs to be after years of telling the points of interest to gaping visitors—and he drops his h's about with a prodigality which is little short of miraculous. The curious old stonemason, finding it difficult to make suitable responses—while he patters off the history of the castle, its architecture, and the customary jokes. No one grudges the poor man the jokes if they lighten his daily task. He pulls up short in the choir while he points out the curious "miserere," and jokers over the carvings done by the workmen.

"E," said the verger, pointing with delight to one very grotesque carving, "was the Punch of 'is day, 'e was."

Everyone wanders through the churchyard at the old Priory Church and examines the grave-stones. Here is a puzzle:

"We were not slayne, but rayned—Rayned not to life, But to be buried twice by men of sin."

What rest could the Living have When Dead had none?

Agree amongst you, Here we ten are one."

Henry Rogers died April 15, 1871.

The New Forest is not far off. One drives past little villages and old churches, and minor houses, the homes of important people. Brockenhurst is one of the prettiest New Forest villages, but the capital of Forest is Lyndhurst. From here it is easy to go to the most interesting parts. One of these, naturally, is Rufus Stone, which marks the spot where William Rufus was shot, eight hundred and ten years ago. For all we know the descendants of the charcoal-burner who carried away his body are working in the New Forest at the present time, passed in their sight-seeing by the people from a New World, unknown to Rufus, which has helped to change British history.

The white poplar can be used as a natural lighting rod.

An oak tree of average size, with 700,000 leaves, lifts from the earth about 123 tons of water during the five months it is in leaf.

Among our best bearing trees the hickories are perhaps the best known. They are strictly North American trees. None now grow in any other part of the world. There are fourteen known species. One grows in Mexico, while the others grow east of the Rocky mountains.

Proverbs.

Weak men never yield at the proper time—Latin proverb.

Great without small makes a bad wall—Greek proverb.

Pleasure is often hidden under beauty—Irish proverb.

A good woman draws more with a hair of her head than a pair of oxen will harness—Polish proverb.

Hasn't thou a friend? Then visit him often, for thorns and brushwood obstruct the road which no one treads—Oriental proverb.

TORONTO'S POLICE CHIEF.

Col. Graesset is a Soldierly Man Who Devotes Himself to His Work.

There are ten of thousands of Toronto men who never see Henry J. de Graesset, the city's Chief of Police. At meetings of any kind, in any of the hundred and one propaganda for the betterment or the revolutionizing of the nation's affairs, the colonel is never "among those present."

He is—no, he will tell you himself, if you can seize him in one of his rare communicative moods—a police officer and a private citizen. He gives his whole time to the two functions.

It is rarely that the colonel is seen on the street in uniform. But if you notice a six-foot-two policeman, on post halt, straighten up rigidly and salute a middle-aged, grey-moustached gentleman in a borrowed tunic you may know that the chief passes. Toronto policemen are ordered to salute the Chief, the Deputy Chief, the mayor, and the senior County Judge.

The three last are the police commissioners. Other citizens may be saluted, but that is merely a personal compliment from the bluecoat.

"Any man on the force, even the youngest recruit, can interview the Chief," says an old inspector. This is not saying that the chief passes. The three last are the police commissioners. Other citizens may be saluted, but that is merely a personal compliment from the bluecoat.

The silent gentleman who daily sits in his room in his private life is really the business manager of the force. He knows everything that goes on every day. He has a sort of consulting board composed of the Deputy Chief and the ten inspectors. The sixteen men in conclave nearly every day—and what is said and done no man knows save the members of this public service Staff Chamber. But important matters of force administration go on to the commissioners. The chief is secretary of the board.

It will not be long before Colonel Graesset celebrates his twenty-fifth anniversary as head of the Toronto police. He has done his work quietly and unobtrusively.

When in 1890 the old 10th lancers were reorganized and had their style changed to the Royal Grenadiers, Colonel Graesset became their commanding officer. He held the post for more than six years, and had charge of the regiment throughout the second Boer rebellion. At Fish Creek and Batoche the colonel was in the firing line, and in the later engagement was one of the first in the rebel rifle-pits after the famous charge.

When asked the reason for her action she replied that she was only doing her duty by removing temptation, adding that she wished she could break the back of the saloon-keeper who had sold the whiskey as easily as she had broken that of the bottle.

London's Latest "Princess." Miss Isabel Jay, who is to take the leading part in "The Balkan Princess," at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, made her first appearance on the stage in the summer of 1897 in the revival of "The Yeoman of the Guard."

Mr. Walter Passmore took me by the shoulders, and with a kind word literally pushed me on to the stage. The effect of suddenly facing the footlights and the audience was like an electric shock, and seemed to freeze my nerves. I was told afterwards that I did not miss a note of my part, though to this day I cannot tell what I did that night."

A Year's Storms. The averages number of rains occurring in a year is about six and a half.

An Utter Wretch. "Our engagement broken," admitted the girl, "but I still have a tender feeling for him."

GERM INOCULATION.

Late Nicholas Murphy, K.C., Tried Hard to Prove a Grave Charge.

Readers of the daily papers are aware that in one of the large American cities a doctor was recently on trial on a charge of murdering his wife by inoculating him with typhoid germs. Such charges, which seem fantastic but are not beyond the region of possibility, have been made not infrequently since the germ theory of disease became accepted by scientists. Over fifteen years ago the late Nicholas Murphy, K.C., had a case of the kind which he desired to have ventilated in the public prints.

It may be said that he did not succeed, for the most sensational editor then would have shied at such a story and there would have been a prima facie case of overwhelming strength before a Canadian newspaper would touch such a story to-day.

The case in question was one that involved a politician long since dead, who was at that time very prominent in Ontario. Charges of disreputable conduct in his private life were made against him, and the chief witness against him was a young woman who lived in his home as a sort of companion to his wife. Her own character, which was good, was not involved, and she was apparently in good health also when she fell ill with some slight sickness and was treated by a physician who was related to the politician in question. She never rallied, and before the criminal charges and the libel actions arising from the charges came to trial she had succumbed to galloping consumption.

The silent gentleman who daily sits in his room in his private life is really the business manager of the force. He knows everything that goes on every day. He has a sort of consulting board composed of the Deputy Chief and the ten inspectors. The sixteen men in conclave nearly every day—and what is said and done no man knows save the members of this public service Staff Chamber. But important matters of force administration go on to the commissioners. The chief is secretary of the board. It will not be long before Colonel Graesset celebrates his twenty-fifth anniversary as head of the Toronto police. He has done his work quietly and unobtrusively.

When in 1890 the old 10th lancers were reorganized and had their style changed to the Royal Grenadiers, Colonel Graesset became their commanding officer. He held the post for more than six years, and had charge of the regiment throughout the second Boer rebellion. At Fish Creek and Batoche the colonel was in the firing line, and in the later engagement was one of the first in the rebel rifle-pits after the famous charge.

Colonel Graesset has seen his force grow from fewer than 150 to 500 men. He has done his work quietly and unobtrusively. When asked the reason for her action she replied that she was only doing her duty by removing temptation, adding that she wished she could break the back of the saloon-keeper who had sold the whiskey as easily as she had broken that of the bottle.

London's Latest "Princess." Miss Isabel Jay, who is to take the leading part in "The Balkan Princess," at the Prince of Wales Theatre, London, made her first appearance on the stage in the summer of 1897 in the revival of "The Yeoman of the Guard."

"An awful panic seized me," she says, "while I was waiting to go on the stage. Just as I stepped on the stage I saw a man come to go on. Mr. Walter Passmore took me by the shoulders, and with a kind word literally pushed me on to the stage. The effect of suddenly facing the footlights and the audience was like an electric shock, and seemed to freeze my nerves. I was told afterwards that I did not miss a note of my part, though to this day I cannot tell what I did that night."

A Year's Storms. The averages number of rains occurring in a year is about six and a half.

An Utter Wretch. "Our engagement broken," admitted the girl, "but I still have a tender feeling for him."

You fought as well as it out," advised her friend. "He's going around bragging about his lucky escape."

A BRILLIANT WRITER.

Dr. Thomas O'Hagan's Essays Are Recalling High Praise.

Thomas O'Hagan, M.A., Ph.D., the noted Canadian poet and literary critic, whose recently published essays are receiving such high praise from leading Canadian and American critics, is one of Canada's most brilliant young writers. During the last fifteen years he has been doing splendid work in the field of literature and making a name for himself. He first attracted marked attention by his Songs of the Settlements and his Canadian Essays and Studies in Poetry reveal a wide acquaintance with literature of the Dominion.

Dr. O'Hagan is of Irish descent and was educated at St. Michael's College and Ottawa University, graduating there in 1882 with high honors in English, Latin, French and German, and subsequently took a post graduate course at Cornell University, where he studied literature under Prof. Corson, the eminent Browning and Shakespearean scholar. He followed the teaching profession for some years and has taken a deep interest in the educational advancement of the Catholic schools of Ontario. He has held classical and modern languages, masterships in several of the leading high schools of Canada and has been a voluminous contributor to many of the leading magazines, periodicals and newspapers of the day. His writing is characterized by a fine literary style and a finish that stamps him as a writer of superior merit.

During 1903 and 1904 Dr. O'Hagan traveled in Europe and he has enjoyed great success in his lecture platform both in Canada and the United States. He has lectured at the Catholic University of New Orleans, the Columbian Catholic Summer School, Detroit, and the Champlain Summer School, Plattsburg, and has appeared on the lecture platform in nearly all the leading cities of the American Union.

Dr. O'Hagan is a member of the Canadian Club, Hamilton, of the Catholic Society, Montreal; the Irish-American Historical Society, the American Historical Society, New Orleans, the Columbian Catholic Summer School, Detroit, and the Champlain Summer School, Plattsburg, and has appeared on the lecture platform in nearly all the leading cities of the American Union.

ASPECT OF ZAM-BUK

IT SAVES MOTHERS MONEY!

Zam-Buk appeals saving to all. Suppose husband, wife or some member of the family sustains a cut or a bad scratch, which festers or turns to blood poisoning. Recall—off work? What does that mean at pay day? Zam-Buk prevents wounds, cuts or injuries "turning the wrong way." Apply it immediately, and it kills the poison and starts healing.

There is another aspect. If you have a family, especially a young one, a skin disease, try Zam-Buk first. Zam-Buk first—don't run to the doctor on experimenting! You will find it saves mothers money on the average!

EDITORIAL NOTES

Conciliation is like oil on the troubled waters of labor disputes.

The tightening of the C.P.R. line
will recall old construction days.

The latest excuse for the absence of Mr. Clarke from the investigation is the best one. It is that Mr. Clarke is reminiscing across the line to get a better view of Hall's comet.—Albertan

The Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform league state in their official organ that they intend to bring a local option campaign in every district of Alberta if possible. This will cause a lot to sit up and take notice.

Immigration into Canada is not confined to Americans, repatriated Canadians, Europeans and Asiatics but includes a well. Over twenty thousand horses have arrived since the first of the year. Most of them have received situations.

The occurrence of so many runaways
and the picturesque demerit appearances along the Blairmore road suggest that either the government is too weak to look after the needs of the district or too busy watching Clarke get away with the $7,400,000.

All signs point to an early arbitration between the Consolidated Coal company at Frank and the other miners. The company has already conferred to the London Act by appointing an arbitrator viz. Colin MacLeod and government is expected to appoint the chairman this week. It is not known yet who the miners will appoint. In all probability it will be President Powell.

ADVERTISE COLEMAN

Dr. Warnock's suggestion that a publicity agent should be appointed to look after the proper advertising of the resources and advantages of Pincher Creek is timely and in keeping with the modern idea in vogue in all enterprising and progressive towns and cities.
The cry of the day is that the town is too small and cannot bear the expense.
These towns generally continue to cry
for they will move by their own enterprise encourage manufacturing men to locate in their town.

Coleman is in even better shape than Pincher Creek for commencing a publicity campaign. We have the main line of the C.P.R. N.W., we have at our doors a land of coal mines, we have encouraging prospects of oil, platinum
and gold mines. Why look ahead, Timber is found in almost unlimited quantities and besides the manufacture of lumber, pulp mills could be operated,
dye and saw factories established and a general impetus given to other industries that would reap immense benefits.
The Board of Trade and Council could consider this matter and devise an economical method for setting forth
the advantages of Coleman.

EFFECT OF IMMIGRATION

The continued increase in the flow of immigration of Britishers, repatriated
Canadians, Americans, Europeans
and Asiatics is causing tremendous expansion in Canadian trade and commerce. More important than this, is the breaking up of millions of fertile waste lands which are now being less mercantile and well-to-do houses of business. Closely following the expansion of business is the need and necessity for articles that require immediate manufacture. Cities spring up where the bald prairie before was only a suggestion of loneliness.

The restriction placed by the government on the financial status of immigrants is having the desired effect of bringing in an ever-increasing better class of citizens, who adding not only to the wealth of the nation, rear houses that are capable of raising families in a proper manner. A shiftless family is a detriment to the community.

The one great question before the people of Canada is, can we properly assimilate these incoming people? The school and the church have a great work before them in assisting to educate and temper the different elements and mold them into a united strong and law-abiding nation with Canadian ideals and imperial sentiment.

Bellevue notes

Geo. Knowles has left the hospital considerably improved, a complete recovery is expected in a few days.

Monday last the timber limits belonging to Mrs. C. Emmerson were seen to be on fire. Mr. E. however is not perturbed and says it will clear the ground.

Next Sunday the Eagles propose to hold a Memorial Service for the deceased miner, James Sardino. This will be held in the Methodist Church
when it is expected a large gathering will show respect to the brother departed.

This football season promises well.
On Saturday night the insides and outsides played a game which ended in a 2-0 in favor of the insides. The outsiders however contested that the eleven which composed the opposing team,
was considerably augmented before the end of the first half, and still further increased during the second half,
so that a conservative estimate put the number engaged in the game as 25 against 13. However, in spite of these amazing odds the ball kept close touch with the insides goal. Fixtures for the season show that the first five league games are at home, and are as follows.

We regret to report that Miss V. Der Postulatus, has suffered a severe accident which for a time completely incapacitated her. It appears that
"Jean" and she went driving Sunday.
When near to Lundbreck, the horse shied and in the excitement she jumped from the rig. The fall was a heavy one and resulted in the fracture of a leg.
Fortunately Jean was able to bring the animal to a halt in quick order and to help her to the house of her friends
where she received every attention.
Dr. Macdonald was sought for, he being in the district, but not being able to locate him, a telephone message brought Dr. Mackenzie along from Bellevue, who did all possible to ease the pain and set the bone. We understand that on Wednesday he set the same to plaster.

contains sixty four pages, is for free

It should be desired factor in persuad-

A POSITIVE CURE FOR INDIGESTION

If you have indigestion your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood, decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood
to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, dick headache, bad breath which discomforts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but ferments and rotten in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enough and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

M-I-O-N-A is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed to cure or money back.

The price of a large box of M-I-O-N-A tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worse case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

aried tailors in the world.

Something About the Inside of the Clothes You Wear

One often hears it said of a building or business "it has a solid foundation." The "inside" of your clothes—the part you don't see—is the foundation of the service possibilities of your suit. The careful hand tailoring you have heard the salesmen tell you of manifests its worth while the garment is in actual service. It is then you realize the value of carefully padded shoulders, the reinforced parts where the strain is greatest, the linen canvas instead of cotton and many other modern tailoring ideas. These distinctive qualities await your inspection.
